

Ernie Shore, one of the leading pitchers for the Red Sox.

George Foster, another.

Babe Ruth, another left-hander, and maybe as good.

Erskine Mayer, another.

Tris Speaker, great batter and probably the greatest defensive outfielder in baseball.

The High Men
In the Battle
Now Raging
For the Throne in the National Game.

Dutch Leonard, best left-hander in American League.

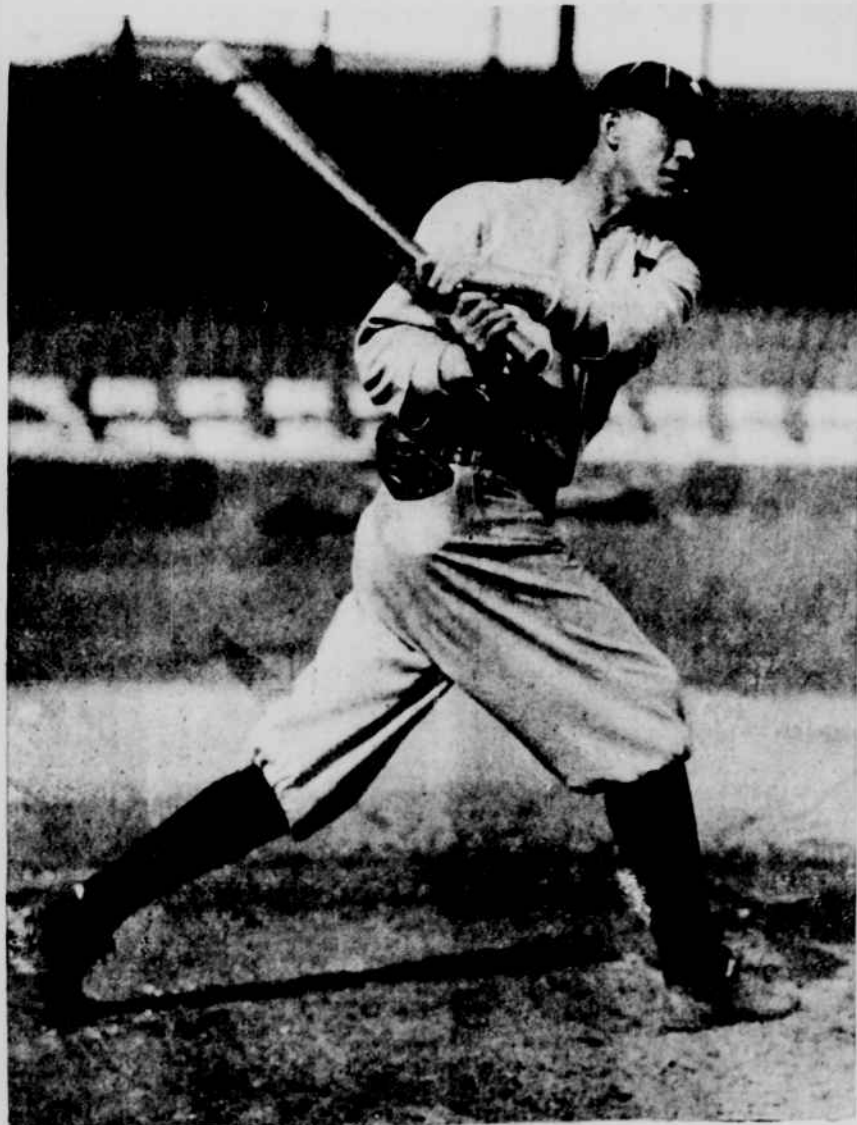

George Chalmers, one of Philadelphia's best pitchers.

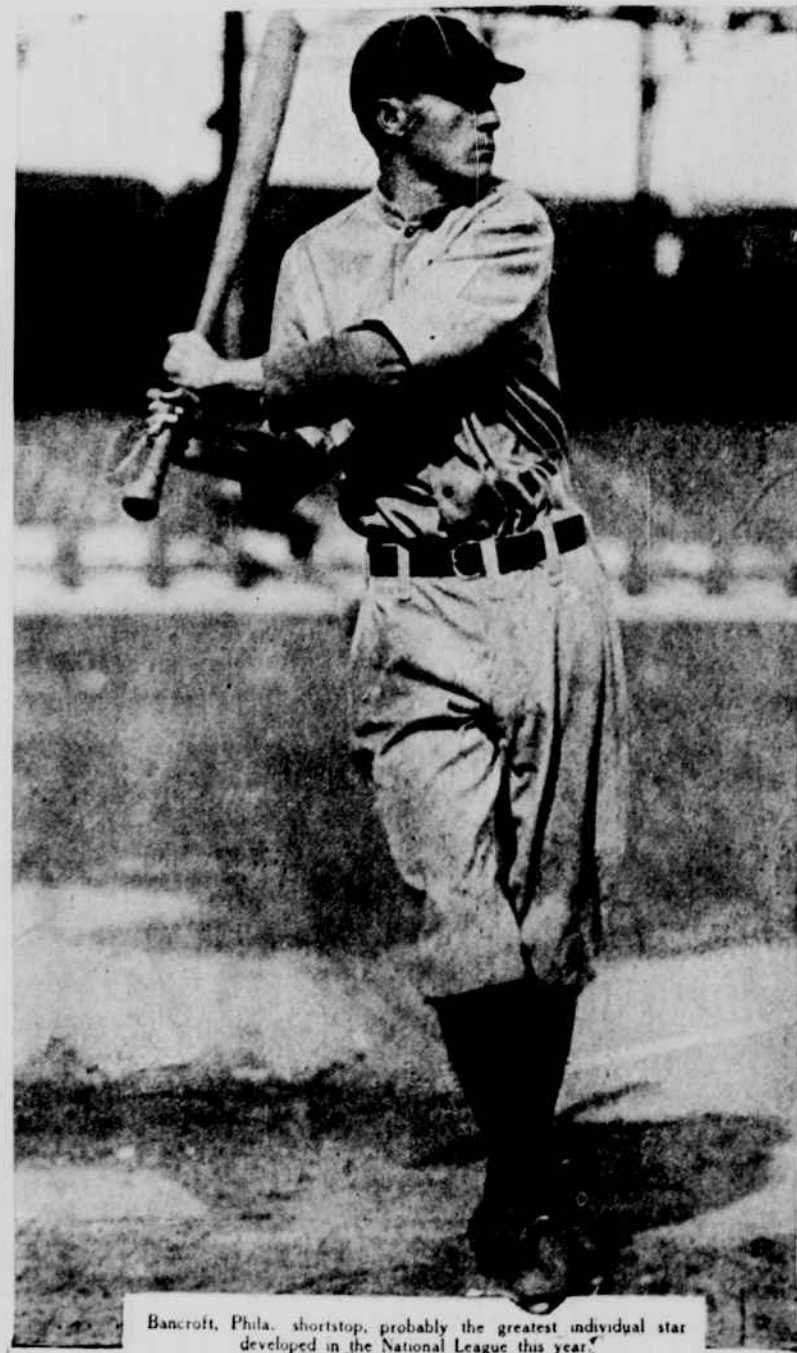

Says Pat Moran, of the Phillies, to Bill Carrigan, of the Red Sox: "Anything but Baseball."

Cactus Cravath, the National League's home run king.

Fred Luderus, the National League's best batter.

Bancroft, Phila. shortstop, probably the greatest individual star developed in the National League this year.

Photos © by International News Service.